

2003 AGM Report

The current committee has just published its second edition Volume 19 Number 1.

The committee has established the following procedure for each issue:

1. Meeting to discuss content and assign tasks
2. Committee members continue to communicate by email and collect articles and reports
3. Articles and reports submitted to Editor who does the layout and sends to printer
4. Printer delivers to Distribution Coordinator who makes sure copies are distributed

The next meeting to plan Vol 19 No 2 will be held at the end of July.

Other points:

- Source of much of the material is the ESLE committee or reports on professional development events. Contributions from the wider membership would be very welcome.
- The reviews section is now edited by Helen Flavel and contains mostly South Australian contributions – writing a review is a good way to begin to get published and as books are retained by the reviewer also a good way to add to a professional library
- Conferences listing another regular feature
- Publication online an issue for future consideration
